

After it is wound and released, a wind-up car travels at almost a constant velocity. Assuming it takes a negligible time to get up to speed, what does the graph of its velocity look like as a function of time?

⑥ None of these